

Plans for institutions, what each seat tier includes

Institutions buy seats (one seat = 30 days of full access for one learner), billed once by invoice, not monthly subscriptions. The three tiers below set what each learner gets and what the institution can do. Guided lessons, conversation practice, writing practice and flashcards/quizzes are included on every tier; the tiers differ in the daily learning allowance, memory, personalization, included tests, instructor tools, and support.

Per-seat price by number of seats

Understanding the daily learning allowance

Every learner gets a daily allowance for the platform's AI-powered activity, guided lessons and conversation practice both draw on it. It is measured in "tokens" (roughly, the words the system reads and writes); a typical lesson step or conversation exchange uses about 1,000-2,000 tokens. In everyday terms, Institution Plus (100,000/day) comfortably covers around an hour of active learning per learner per day, Institution Pro covers about ten hours of activity a day, and Premium is effectively unlimited. The allowance is per learner and resets every day.

Which tier suits which program

Institution Plus	Lowest per-seat cost: lessons and conversation with device memory, for a budget rollout that doesn't need instructor reporting.
Institution Pro	Recommended for a language program: adds instructor progress reports, classroom tools, synced memory and personalization.
Institution Premium	Large or flagship programs: everything in Pro plus priority support and the highest allowances.

All institution tiers start at a 10-seat minimum; per-seat price drops at 100+ seats. A seat is 30 days of access per learner, drawn from a prepaid pool. Extra proficiency tests are $10 each. Conversation/lesson-time figures are estimates based on roughly 1,000-2,000 tokens per interaction and vary with activity length. Individuals can also use a free personal plan; institutional seats begin at Institution Plus.
